Best's Fruit Tree Invigorator. We admit the communication of Mr. Sites to our columns, for the reason that the necessarily partial report of the remarks of Mr. Fetters at the last Horticultural Society meeting may have had an undue influence to the injury of Mr. Sites. The writer of this being the reporter in the case referred to, it is proper for us to explain that in the remarks which were made before the Society, the intention of imputing any design of "humbug" or "fraud" to Mr. Sites was expressly disclaimed-and the opinion was expressed that if there was a design of that kind in the framing of the language of the Circular called in question on that selves accordingly. occasion, Mr. Sites himself was probably a victim, as well as others. It should be further stated that there was no action whatever on the question of the merits of the "Invigorator," by the Society.
